

LINDBERGH'S NOW PREPARING FOR NEMURO FLIGHT

Colonel and Wife Still at Petropavlovsk; Departure Uncertain

BOTH FETED BY CROWDS

Dangerous Flying Above Kurile Islands Faces the Couple

NEMURO, JAPAN, Aug. 17.—A radio message from Paramushir Island, picked up here by the Ochi Ishi wireless station, indicated tonight that Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were still at Petropavlovsk, Kamchatka, studying weather reports. There was no intimation as to when they would start for Nemuro.

TOKIO, Aug. 17.—Conflicting radio reports, the means by which the vacation tour of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh is being reported as they follow the Siberian coast to Tokio, left in doubt the location of the fliers today.

Ochishi wireless station at Nemuro, Japan, the next scheduled stop on a flight from Petropavlovsk where the pair landed yesterday, said the couple planned to start today after receiving reports of approaching unfavorable weather over the Sea of Okhotsk and the Kurile Islands.

Later the station said it had intercepted a message from a Japanese fishing boat saying a start had been made, but this was not confirmed. Today the Dollar liner President Grant, 1,500 miles from Tokio, reported it had received a message from Tokio that the Lindberghs would start tomorrow.

The 897-mile flight from Petropavlovsk to Nemuro will be the last hop before the final jump to Tokio, ending there a flight begun in Washington and traversing the wilds of Canada and Alaska.

Between the Lindberghs and Nemuro lay dangerous flying above the Kurile Islands, a long chain extending from the southwestern tip of Hokkaido Island, which is the northernmost of the group forming Japan proper. The Kuriles are of a rugged, volcanic type, and are sparsely inhabited.

The Tokio Central Observatory weather report today said a low pressure area was forming over the Sea of Okhotsk and that a dense fog apparently was moving toward the Kuriles. Conditions in the Kamchatka region also were becoming unfavorable, the observatory said. At Iurup, one of the Kuriles, and at Nemuro, however, the weather was reported clear.

Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh were given an enthusiastic reception upon their arrival at Petropavlovsk at 3 p. m. yesterday (2 a. m. Sunday, in Philadelphia) from Karagin Island, 554 miles to the north.

Mrs. James Kelly and Mrs. Frank Brady, of Spruce street, spent last week in Atlantic City, N. J.

Knights of Pythias Meet at Carlisle

CARLISLE, Pa., Aug. 17.—(INS)—With more than a thousand delegates present from all sections of the state, the annual convention of the Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias of Pennsylvania, opened here today to continue through Wednesday. The Pythian Sisters will also hold their annual sessions here, in conjunction with the Grand Lodge meeting.

Opening day of the convention was taken up with registration of delegates, a sight-seeing tour, reception of Grand Lodge officers and conferring of the degree of page on a class of candidates. The degree was conferred by the degree team of Kearney Lodge, Chambersburg.

Officially, the convention gets under way tomorrow morning with a reception of officers, introduction of the master of ceremonies and outlining of the work facing delegates. The first session of the grand lodge will convene in the afternoon and will be followed by a banquet and informal meeting.

Grand lodge meetings will be held Wednesday morning and afternoon and Wednesday afternoon the parade of Knights of Pythian Sisters will be staged. It is expected more than 6,000 marchers will take part in the demonstration.

Notables who are scheduled to be present for the official opening of the sessions include Supreme Chancellor Leslie G. Crouch, of Portland, Ore., U. S. Senator James J. Davis and prominent state officials of the order.

TRUCK AND BEER GO THROUGH CANAL BRIDGE

Ancient Span Gives Way Under Heavy Load at Washington Crossing

TO REBUILD THE BRIDGE

WASHINGTON CROSSING, Aug. 17.—Another of the antiquated "camel-back" bridges over the Pennsylvania canal gave way Saturday under a truck loaded with 26 half barrels of beer and the truck along with its contents went crashing down into the water. The driver escaped with a few splashes of water.

State Police, Morrisville, were called and confiscated the beer, taking it to Doylestown. Workmen toiled all day yesterday in removing the truck and the bridge is to be repaired at once.

The ill-fated truck which plunged into the canal had been driven across the river bridge from the New Jersey shore, closely followed, witnesses told Morrisville State Police, by a roadster containing two men.

One witness said he watched the progress of the truck and suddenly saw it disappear as a pending crash was heard at the bridge.

The venerable span would hold only three tons, a freshly-painted sign read. However, heedless of the fact that he was driving a five-ton vehicle with an extra-heavy load, the driver continued onto the bridge. As the truck neared the center of the wooden span, it crashed to the water and turned on its side.

Gloria Back, but Not Alone

Sir Cupid and Dame Kumor, putting their warring heads together, have created keen interest in the affair of Gloria Swanson, film star, and Michael Farmer, millionaire sportsman, who followed the beautiful actress all over Europe and was a fellow passenger aboard the Aquitania when it brought Gloria home to the U. LANGHORNE CHURCH SCENE OF WEDDING

Garvin Ramey Peffer Weds Miss Maude M. Sealey

REV. ZOOK OFFICIATES

LANGHORNE, Aug. 17.—Two well-known residents of this borough were united in marriage Saturday at noon, when Miss Maude M. Sealey, daughter of Mrs. William Sealey, of East Maple avenue, became the wife of Garvin Ramey Peffer, of Langhorne, son of T. O. Peffer.

Rev. J. Carpenter Zook, pastor, performed the ceremony in the Langhorne M. E. Church, in the company of relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The edifice was banked with palms, and attractive in its decorations of greens and cut flowers.

Miss Sealey was given in marriage by her brother, Harry Sealey.

Included in the attendants of the bride were two of her sisters, Misses Leona and Nettie Sealey, Miss Leona Sealey, twin sister of the bride, was maid of honor, while Miss Frieda Jewell, of Tanawaga, and Miss Nettie Sealey were bridesmaids.

Attending Mr. Peffer as best man was Edwin Kephart, of Langhorne. The ushers were Maurice Wolskill and William Bathaser.

As the bridal party made its entrance Mrs. Harry Friedrich, of Langhorne, played upon the organ Lohengrin's Wedding March. Appropriate selections were also given during the ceremony. Mrs. Paul Vansant sang "Oh, Promise Me," the accompaniment being by Mrs. Friedrich.

A reception at the Sealey home immediately after the ceremony was attended by members of the bridal party, and relatives of the bride and groom.

The bride was most attractive in a gown of white satin. The bodice was close-fitting, as well as the long sleeves; and the skirt long and full. Her veil was formed of tulle, with trimming of orange blossoms, and white satin slippers completed the costume. Her shower bouquet was fashioned of various white flowers.

Miss Leona Sealey, the maid of honor, wore a dress of blue point d'esprit lace. A horsehair hat and satin slippers matched the dress. The bridesmaids were likewise garbed in dresses of point d'esprit lace, these each being pink. Their horsehair hats and slippers were also of pink. The three carried arm bouquets.

After their return from a lengthy motor trip Mr. and Mrs. Peffer will reside on South Bellevue avenue.

The groom is engaged as an instructor at Langhorne high school, teaching science and other subjects. He is a graduate of Dickinson College. The former Miss Sealey is a graduate of Langhorne high school, and Temple University. She has been a member of the faculty of the Tanawaga high school, instructing in physical education.

PICNIC POSTPONED

Picnic scheduled at Burlington Island last Saturday by Hopkins Lodge, I. O. O. F., was postponed, owing to inclement weather during the morning. The affair will occur next Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Patterson, of 1015 Pond street, spent several days recently in Morrisville, where they attended the funeral of the late mother of Miss Clara Beidleman, one of the local public school teachers.

John Barrett Wins First Place in Swimming Race

Saturday afternoon, the big event of the water carnival at the Knights of Columbus took place. It was the Burlington to Bristol swim, and about 25 contestants entered the race. The race started from the main wharf in Burlington and ended at the Knights of Columbus float.

John Barrett, of Beaver street, won first place after Ed. Dugan and Liberty had set the pace nearly all the way. Many of the swimmers miscalculated their strength and found themselves exhausted early in the race, but the majority finished in good time.

At the start, Miss Bessie McGinley, of Otter street, took the lead, but at the quarter way mark she had to be taken into a boat. Liberty then took the lead, swimming a fast over hand stroke; John Barrett came from behind to run second to Liberty at the halfway mark. Ed. Dugan passed Barrett and challenged Liberty for the lead, but Liberty held it. At the Bristol boatwharf, Liberty held a two yard advantage over Dugan, who was five yards ahead of Barrett. Coming into the last 200 yards found Barrett creeping up on the leaders and in the last 100 yards he passed Dugan who in turn passed Liberty and they finished in that manner.

The winner's time was twenty minutes and fifteen seconds. Liberty finished third, Gallagher of K. of C. was fourth; Session, of the Keystone Aircraft, fifth; Manning, 6th; T. Barrett, 7th; Seneca, 8th, and Dougherty 9th. All swimmers were accompanied by boats.

ALLEGED ATTACKERS ARE CAUGHT BY POLICE

Two Men Arrested for Heißen Robbery at Buckingham

NOW IN COUNTY JAIL

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 17.—Two men alleged to have attacked and robbed James R. Hansell, 64, Buckingham, on August 8th, are now in the county jail here.

Efficient service of the Pennsylvania State Police force was again demonstrated Saturday with the arrest near Greensburg, Pa., of the two youths.

From descriptions sent out over the teletype earlier in the week by Corporal William Francis, in command of the Doylestown sub-station of State Police, Greensburg troopers arrested Clifford Ashton, 25, of New Hope, and Charles O. Edwards, 20, of Saxton, Bedford County, Pa., Saturday.

Since last Monday, Detective Russo, Corporal Francis and his officers were in possession of information which practically placed the crime on Ashton and Edwards, both of whom were employed on a highway construction job on the Durham Road, and both of whom were in a hotel at Gardenville last Saturday evening while Hansell was there and displayed his money that he carried in an old tobacco pouch because he had no time for banks.

The police quickly ascertained who committed the crime. They went to New Hope and found that Edwards, who boarded with Ashton, had left the town. Ashton left with him and on a table in the house Ashton left a note addressed to his mother informing her that he was going to Atlantic City on a trip.

In the Ashton house the officers found the real evidence which will lead to a quick conviction they say. Inside they found the blood-stained clothes worn by Ashton and Edwards when they assaulted the aged farmer and beat him unmercifully into unconsciousness, so that it was necessary for the doctor to take seventy-six stitches and three hours to sew up the wounds.

The investigation then led Corporal Francis and County Detective Russo to New York City, where they obtained information which led them to believe that both Ashton and Edwards were in that city and would make a "break" for some distant point.

Word was immediately dispatched throughout the nation, containing a detailed description of the two men, but kept the names a secret. Every police headquarters in the country was "covered," even as far west as San Francisco. But especially did the officers give the Greensburg sub-station of State Police, orders to keep the home of Ashton's father in Saxton, Bedford County, well covered.

Greensburg State Police informed Corporal Francis that the men were in possession of a new automobile and that they had a sum in cash with them when arrested. They were taken to the Troop C headquarters of the State Police at Reading and were brought back to Doylestown for a hearing Saturday.

Both men when confronted with the evidence the officers have obtained made voluntary signed confessions in the office of Carl W. Hobensack, here.

It is believed that Edwards did the plotting of the crime, as he is known, the police say, as an old offender. Hansell's condition is still considered serious.

Sensation Due

Major Roy Ammel (above), who made the first non-stop flight from the United States to Panama several months ago, is reported to be ready to announce plans for another sensational flight which may surpass even that of Post and Gatty in daring. Ammel has purchased a fast new plane for his promised aerial adventure.

ANDALUSIA SCOUTS LAY LOG CABIN CORNER-STONE

Pleasant Exercises Are Held and Affair is Well Attended

DONATIONS ARE MADE

ANDALUSIA, Aug. 17.—Hearty congratulations were extended to the Boy Scouts of Andalusia troop, Saturday afternoon, on the occasion of the corner-stone laying at the Scouts' log-cabin, located at Bristol Pike and Kings Lane.

The opening prayer was delivered by Rev. W. W. Williams, rector of the Andalusia Church of the Redeemer.

A history of the local Boy Scout troop, given by John Ferguson, was interesting, and several men who were members of the troop when it was first organized under the direction of Rev. Clayton, were in attendance at Saturday's ceremonies.

Addresses were made by LeRoy Swan, a member of the Scout committee; John Curtis, secretary of the Boy Scouts and Assistant Scoutmaster; Harry Oliver, county Scout commissioner. The latter gave words of praise to those who have worked so faithfully to bring about the meeting place for the lodge.

Donations of money toward completion of the structure were received. Names of donors are to be placed on a scroll, and this is to be sealed in the corner-stone.

Dedication services will occur on Saturday, August 29th.

Lewis Hartman is Scoutmaster, and Forrest Jackson, his assistant.

Assets of each were turned over to State Banking Superintendent Ira J. Fulton.

TWO RAIDS BY POLICE NET 22 MEN AND 10 WOMEN NEAR HERE

All Are Charged With Disorderly Conduct and Fined

SEVERAL GO TO JAIL

State Police, Morrisville, Conducted Both of The Raids

HULMEVILLE, Aug. 17.—A double raid in this vicinity early yesterday morning, netted officers a round-up of 22 men and 10 women, the latter under age.

Charged with disorderly conduct, the 32 at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Samuel K. Faust, pleaded guilty, and each was fined $5 and costs, the total for each amounting to $8.50.

Eight of those unable to pay the stipulated amount were taken to Bristol and South Langhorne, where they were incarcerated for the remainder of the night. Yesterday morning they were taken to the county jail at Doylestown. The other 24 paid in cash or forfeited jewelry.

The wholesale raid was conducted at about 1.30 at two bungalows. Officers Christ and Stewart, of the Morrisville state police barracks, and Constable Orville Morris, of Hulmeville, swooped down on a place owned by Frank Neudeviller, in Middletown Township, first. The place, which is rented by Neudeviller to a group of Philadelphians, was found occupied by several young men and young women. No resistance was offered when the officers entered the place. Here, too, was some beverage found.

Making their way to a bungalow on the property of William Kern, which Kern likewise rents to Philadelphians, the trio of officers there found another group, which they state was acting in a boisterous and disorderly manner. These, too, were rounded up, and with the first group, taken before Squire Faust. It was a motley crowd which filled the Faust office, all Philadelphia residents. According to those conducting the raid many were apparently under the influence of liquor. The structures are known as "Whoopie Inn" and "Hotter Than Hot."

The raid was the result of complaints of residents of the section, who claim that for weeks past men and women have disturbed the peace of the vicinity. Officials of the town state that such conditions will not be tolerated here, and if any additional complaints are made relative to other places occupied by those out for a boisterous time, the same punishment will be meted out.

The two bungalows are situated about one-fourth mile apart, one being just within the borough line, and the other in Middletown Township.

Workmen Modernizing Gallagher & Gallagher Bldg.

Workmen started today modernizing the Gallagher building, Mill and Cedar streets, in which are located the Gallagher & Gallagher haberdashery and several apartments.

The building is owned by Edward and William Gallagher, who are partners in the haberdashery business.

The plans call for the complete demolishing of the present front and the removal of the old-fashioned and antiquated awning. This is the last awning on Mill street.

A modern store front with two large display windows on Mill street and window space on Cedar street is now to be installed.

The present entrance to the apartment-occupied as part of the display windows. The apartments will be remodeled and fitted with every convenience.

The store will have new equipment throughout and made modern in every respect.

The work is being done by Harry B. Hanford, contractor.

LIFE MORE HAZARDOUS

Readers of newspapers must certainly have been impressed by the unusually large number of catastrophes resulting in much loss of life which have occupied front page space during the last year. It may be imaginary—great events are soon forgotten—but it seems to many that the last 12 months have witnessed more than a normal year's share of disasters.

Looking back over the months the average citizen can recall upwards of a dozen disastrous wind storms and floods, a horrifying number of mine disasters, much loss of life in wrecks on sea and railroad, considerable havoc by fire, earthquakes and many other calamities. Every day seems to have brought its own disaster.

If there has been more loss of life and property through abnormal atmospheric conditions in the past twelve months than in the average year that is readily explained by the variable climate conditions and as for the other disasters the natural advance of civilization may account for them. There are more people, more mines, more trains, more ships and therefore more possibility of accident and more potential victims of accident.

But while life has been in greater hazard and more uncertain during the past year than in the normal year there has been no panic among mankind nor any frantic struggle to prevent the inevitable. The government and the individual have gone about their affairs as serenely and deliberately as in the most uneventful years of the past. For this there is only one explanation. Hope and confidence in life. Although death is always just around the corner man is ever oblivious to it. When disaster wipes out a town it never occurs to the natives of a town ten miles away that it might have been their own town.

LAWS AND CRIME

A New York magistrate says that the gravity of the crime situation is due to two things. The first is that our laws relating to the trial of criminals were formulated in remote days when innocence was in constant danger from tyranny of the great and powerful, and now serve as a protection for the guilty by putting many and often insuperable difficulties in the way of the prosecuting officials.

The second reason given by this judge for the disturbing prevalence of crime is frequent failure of juries to convict even when the evidence warrants and demands a verdict of guilty. This trend in the jury box, if it amounts to that, he attributes to the same disregard for law that is responsible for the "crime wave."

These are phrases of the crime situation if they are not contributing factors. Many reasonable heads will question the statement that men and women commit crimes because of an inherent "disregard for law" or in the hope of beating the law. The criminal's chance of escape is smaller today than ever in the past, and yet one hears it said crime was never more prevalent. The threat of arrest and punishment has always existed, but so has crime.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

ITEMS OF INTEREST AS CLIPPED FROM NEWSPAPER FILES

Following items of interest are gleaned from the files of the Newtown Enterprise dated August 15th, 1896, or 35 years ago.

George V. Doan, of Newtown township, was painfully injured while taking a load of hay to Trenton. Near Edgewood he stopped his team to tighten the ropes over the load of hay. The booming pin in the roller flew back and hit him a hard blow on the jaw knocking out some teeth and driving others into his jaw. He was able to get his team to Trenton, where he received surgical attention.

Henry Wright, an aged colored man, who lived in the woods above Ashby Mill in Buckingham, made a will at Trenton, where he dropped dead. He was 105 years old.

Invitations were out for the wedding of Dr. Isaac N. Woodman, of Morrisville, and Matilda Blaker, of Wrightstown, at the latter place.

Fred Herrman, one of Walter S. Buckman's men, with the aid of a dog, located four raccoons in a tree along the Neshaminy. The poultry destroyers were on a limb seventy feet from the ground. Quite a crowd gathered before Herrman succeeded in shooting the "coons" with a revolver.

Marriages reported:

At Penn Valley, John S. Bearley, of Trenton, N. J., and Emily H. Dickel, of Penn Valley.

At Richboro, Lewis E. Desmond, of Los Angeles, Calif., and Miss Lillie A. VanArtsdalen, of Holland.

At Morrisville, Ralph H. Sweeting, and Mary L. Gants, both of Morrisville.

At Lashaska, Edward A. Jenkins, of Gwynedd, and M. Eliza Atkinson, of Buckingham.

Deaths Noted:

In Newtown, Ruthie, daughter of Leonard and Ella Fuhrer.

In Newtown township, Mary M., wife of Amos King, in her 81st year.

In Hulmeville, Jesse G. Webster, in his 91st year.

In Wyberry, Maria B., daughter of the late Nathaniel and Hannah Y. Richardson.

In Lambertville, N. J., Susan H. Heath, wife of Asa H. Heath.

At Trevese, S. Alice, wife of Isaac Roberts, aged 46 years.

At Southampton, Rachel R., wife of Edward B. Boileau, aged 84 years.

as traffic became stalled. Crates labeled "Radios," floated downstream, after tie-ropes snapped. Then, one by one, several half-barrels made their way out of the wreckage. The soon were rounded up, however, by Troopers Stewart and Christ, of Morrisville State Police, and Constable Thomas South, of Yardley.

Traffic was re-routed to bridge up and down the canal by the police. The Bucks County Commissioners were notified and arrangements were made to take over the truck and beer.

THE MYSTERY OF GERALDINE

by ANTHONY ABBOT

COPYRIGHT BY CONYCE, FRIEDE, INC. — DISTRIBUTED BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

Geraldine Foster, pretty young clerk in the office of Dr. Humphrey Maskell disappeared on Saturday. Three days later her roommate, Betty Canfield, notifies Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt. She states that Geraldine phoned her prior to her disappearance, saying she wished she was dead. Harry Armstrong, the missing girl's fiance, had not heard from her since Friday. Dr. Maskell says he returned to his office Saturday afternoon to find Geraldine gone. At the Foster apartment, Colt learns from Betty that Geraldine had quarreled with the doctor. The Commissioner finds an old-fashioned key in the pocket of Geraldine's coat, and part of a blackmail note, presumably in her handwriting, in the desk. Different ink than that in the apartment was used. It is learned that Betty quarreled with Geraldine, and that she was once engaged to Geraldine's brother, Bruce. Entering Dr. Maskell's home, Colt meets Maskell's chauffeur, muttering "Get me to talk? Never. But Geraldine was good to me." The doctor says there was a strange woman waiting outside his door when he returned Saturday.

CHAPTER VIII

THERE were no lights on in my office and I called out to Geraldine. No answer. Then, to my astonishment the strange woman pushed past me without asking my permission, and walked straight through this reception room, yonder. Of course I followed her, but before I reached her side, she had gone on farther and opened the rear door and looked into the little room at the back. That, too was empty. I then asked her, rather peremptorily, what she was looking for, but she burst into tears. I tried to detain her, but she rushed past me, out into the hallway. I followed her, quite startled at her extraordinary behavior, and then I noticed there was a taxicab before my door. She got into it and drove away.

"You didn't notice the license number on the taxi, I suppose?" asked Thatcher Colt.

Doctor Maskell had not. "And that," said Doctor Maskell soberly, "is all that I know about it. At first I was rather inclined to think that Geraldine had played me a rather shabby trick recently she has not been herself, talked about having royal blood in her veins — but now, I confess, I don't know what to think."

Identity Unknown

"You have no idea who the woman was?"

"No."

"Was she young or old?"

"I had the impression that she was around middle-aged."

"It could not have been Geraldine herself?"

"Good Lord, no!"

Thatcher Colt emptied the bottle from his pipe into an ash-tray and began refilling the bowl.

"Queer," he said musingly. "That mysterious lady might have been just a wandering person with a disordered mind. On the other hand, she may yet prove to be of supreme importance in this case."

"Yes, certainly," agreed Doctor Maskell.

"I shall take a look through your establishment. Mind?" asked Thatcher Colt.

"Do you think Geraldine is still here?" asked the doctor, opening wide his eyes.

Without answering, the Police Commissioner rose and strode through the two rooms to the door at the back and through that into the rear room. I followed him, with Doctor Maskell marching at my heels. The sombre, brown eyes of Thatcher Colt were turning from one object to another in the clutter of stored material in that last room of the suite. Bending down, he fingered bottles and packages that lay loosely around and I noticed that over one large bottle he lingered. Stolidly the doctor watched as the Commissioner removed the stout cork, and sniffed at the neck of the bottle. Then, still without a word, Thatcher Colt left the bottle and went on prowling into the consultation room. He halted suddenly before a closed door.

"What is that?"

The Closet's Contents

"A clothes closet," answered Doctor Maskell.

Thatcher Colt opened it and thrust his hand inside.

"May I ask," inquired Maskell, "what you hope to find in there, Mr. Commissioner?"

Backing out of the closet, Thatcher Colt showed a brown fur coat in his hand.

"Did this belong to Geraldine Foster?" he asked, turning toward the doctor and staring at him with profound melancholy.

ful of silver. Putting the coat and bag into my hands the Commissioner turned again to Doctor Maskell.

"Do you suppose the mysterious woman who accosted you brought back the coat and purse? Did you notice if she carried anything?"

"Why—why—no, I did not," answered the physician. "What makes you think about that?"

"I am sorry if I have inconvenienced you," replied Thatcher Colt gloomily. "And I am sorry to say that I may have to trouble you soon again. For the present, good-night."

"Yes, certainly," said Doctor Maskell, opening wide his door and bowing.

But at the threshold, Thatcher Colt paused.

"Doctor," he said, "I am sorry to observe, on departing, that you have not been frank with me."

"What do you mean?" returned Maskell sharply.

"You failed to tell me that you and Geraldine quarreled before you left on your errand of good cheer. You had a beastly quarrel, but you have kept quiet about it."

Doctor Maskell looked startled, then shrugged his shoulders.

"That is true," he admitted. "But it was a private matter, if "I then asked her, rather peremptorily, what she was looking for," said Doctor Maskell.

"Yes, certainly. I cannot imagine what it is doing in there. I did not know it was there. The closet has not been opened by me since Saturday."

"Was this the coat she wore to work on Christmas Eve?"

"I am certain that it was. I saw her with it on when she went out to lunch."

Thatcher Colt closed his eyes as he stood there with the girl's coat held against his chest.

"Christmas Eve was a cold day," he said in a low voice. "The air was damp and raw and piercing. If Geraldine were going out anywhere, she would need her coat."

And there is her bag, hanging on the same nail with her coat. Where can the owner be — if she went out with no coat and no purse?"

In a strained silence we stood there while Thatcher Colt examined the purse, checking up on the small miscellany of its contents — compact, lip-stick, a book of addresses, a roll of bills and a hand-

Miss Foster returns, she will not want me to discuss the subject."

"But the police do want you to discuss it. What did you quarrel about?"

Again the physician shrugged his shoulders helplessly.

"About her engagement. She had broken it off. She told me about it. I told her she was a fool — that she should go through with the marriage. That is why we quarrelled."

"Why did she say she had broken off the engagement?"

"She did not tell me that."

The doctor was lying, Thatcher Colt knew that he was lying, and Maskell knew that he was lying.

Without a word, the Commissioner turned his back on the physician and I followed him out into the vestibule. Behind us the door of the Maskell offices closed quietly but with a click that told us also how securely it was shut against us.

SPORTS

CROYDON WINS ITS
27TH BALL GAME

Croydon chalked up its 27th victory when they defeated the Frankford Giants by the score of 7 to 5.

Holland pitched wonderful ball with men on the bases, having twelve strike-outs, and also had two hits that sent in two runs. Walt Forrest did some hitting, having three hits and sending in two runs, putting Croydon on the lead which they never lost. Stromp drove in the final run in the eighth after Moran doubled.

Frankford Giants sent in a flock of pinch hitters in the eighth but managed to squeeze in only one run, but they got two runs in the final by Lewis's hit to center.

Next Sunday Croydon plays Klady A. C., of Frankford.

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S TRAVELS

MARTING under disrespect shown by a subordinate, Washington set out for Boston to have his position clearly defined by Governor Shirley of Massachusetts, then the highest military authority in the Colonies. He returned with full authority as Commander-in-Chief of the Virginia forces. This was his first trip to Boston, and for effect he rode in full uniform.

GOVERNOR SHIRLEY

BUT, what winding roads do even heroes sometimes travel! Washington detoured to Philipse Manor, near Yonkers, to pay court to Mary Philipse, a Colonial beauty. It was not an ill-timed call, for was he not resplendent in a new blue and buff uniform with a white and scarlet coat? And was he not accompanied by an impressive military escort? The proper approach, it would seem, for the sudden capture of a lady's heart.

Strike-outs: Holland, 12; Monroe, 5.

Hellyer Family Has Its Annual Reunion

Paul, Bristol, corresponding secretary; Edward Hellyer, West Bristol Township, treasurer; Jacob Stockert, South Langhorne, chairman of sports committee.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Henningsen, of Maple street, returned to their home last week from a visit to relatives in Hartford, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wurst and baby, of Cornwells Heights, with their nephew, Robert Baroth, of 346 Jackson street, spent Saturday in Washington, D. C., and left on Sunday for Baltimore, Md., to pay a week's visit to their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. C. Glaeser.

Conklin's Sport Sparks

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Uncle Wilbert Robinson, portly manager of the Brooklyn Robins, ought to be an ardent devotee of the intriguing card game known as "500 rummy".

For like the rummy player who is fond of picking up a long string of cast-off cards in the hope of melding fifty or sixty points, Uncle Wilbert simply cannot resist the temptation of buying discarded ball players who give promise of performing with their former skill.

The Brooklyn line-up is cluttered up with players who at one time or another have worn the livery of other big league clubs. The latest acquisition of the Flock is Denny Sothern, chunky outfielder who once roamed the pastures for the Phillies and Pirates. He recently was purchased by the Dodgers from the Baltimore Club of the International League.

The speedy Sothern is slated to get Johnny Frederick's job as center fielder and lead-off man unless the latter regains his brilliant form of 1929 and 1930 when he was one of the sensations of the National League.

Frederick was one of the weakest cogs in the Brooklyn machine during the club's last Western trip. He has lost some of his speed, has been gullible of erratic fielding and has been batting at the unimpressive gait of .250.

Sothern comes up from Baltimore with a batting average of .327 and should his close to .300 in the National League. In 1928, his first year in fast company, Dennis hit .285 in 141 games for the Phillies and jumped to .306 the following year. Last season he dropped to .266 and was sent to Baltimore by the Pirates, who were well supplied with outfielders.

Sothern's speed on the base paths this year attracted the attention of the Brooklyn club. He led the base burglars in the International League pilfering thirty-two bases in ninety-eight games and scoring seventy-six runs.

Dennis is not a finished out-fielder but his fleetness of foot enables him to get under drives that many other gardeners would be unable to reach. He is expected to speed up the attack of the Robins, whose slowness at foot has caused extreme anguish among the Flatbush fans.

WEST BRISTOL

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carter Jr., and family, and Mrs. Charles Carter Sr., and son Norman, and Mr. Bond, spent last Wednesday in Asbury Park, N. J.

Mrs. Lombardo and children, of Steel avenue, paid a recent visit to Mrs. Lombardo's parents in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. William Valentine attended the Kinsley and Kapler family reunion in Manassas, N. J., on August 9th. Over 100 were present.

Mr. Shader and family, of Philadelphia, were at their bungalow here on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carter and family were at their family reunion in Woodside one day recently.

Reha Williams is now at the Crusier home again after passing a week with her mother in Philadelphia.

LICENSES REVOKED

HARRISBURG, Aug. 17.—Licenses of 41 Pennsylvania motorists were revoked during the week ending August 13, the state bureau of motor vehicles announced here today in making public names of 79 drivers who lost their cards during the week. Nine of the revocations were made in Reading. Thirty-eight drivers were suspended by the bureau for violation of the motor code. Total revocations for the year to date are 1,741 and total suspensions are 1,947, the bureau announced.

Visitor From Philadelphia
Is Surprised by Friends

Miss Marion Neely, of Philadelphia, who has been making an extended visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Killan, of Tullytown, was pleasantly surprised Saturday evening, when a few relatives and friends gathered at the Killan home to celebrate Miss Neely's birthday.

The evening was spent playing games, singing and dancing, and at a late hour refreshments were served. The table was decorated with cut flowers and Miss Neely was presented with a large birthday cake. She also received many pretty birthday gifts.

Those enjoying this party were: Mrs. Emma Neely and sons Charles and Robert, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. John Killan, of Fairview Lane, Bristol; Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Walter, of Headley Manor; Miss Violet Burton, of Tullytown; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Killan and Miss Marion Neely, of Tullytown; Leonard Killan, of New York City.

John Tomlinson and John Roberts, of Jefferson avenue, accompanied by John Downs, of Detroit, who is passing the summer with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Downs, of Radcliffe street, are spending this week in Beach Haven, N. J.

STATE NEWS

YORK, Pa., Aug. 17.—(INS)—Homing pigeons there are in plenty, but James Hankin, of New Freedom, near here, believes his rooster was the only "homing rooster" on record.

Two years ago Hankin sold the bird to William Brenneman, local grocer. Recently, the rooster "flew the coop" at Brenneman's home and disappeared. It was found dead in the chicken house at the Hankin home by young Hankin, nearly a week after its disappearance.

TREVORTON, Pa., Aug. 17.—(INS)—D. F. Richert, suffering the infirmities of age for some time, has changed his mind about where he wants to be buried. He ordered his tombstone moved from the Lutheran cemetery to the Odd Fellows' Cemetery here. Richert was formerly a sexton at the Lutheran Church.

PHILIPSBURG, Pa., Aug. 17.—(INS)—A white eagle, weighing ten pounds and with a wing spread of three and a half feet, was captured along a highway west of Cresson by Reno Sacciani, of Lilly, recently.

The eagle, first seen in the region in some years, was turned over to J. F. Thompson, of Johnstown, game warden for the district.

She Plays This Week

By HARDIN BURNLEY

MRS. MOODY GOES
AFTER THE NATIONAL TITLE AGAIN!

THE climax of the women's tennis season in America will be reached this week, when the National Championship Tourney gets under way at Forest Hills. The Wightman Cup matches are over, and the British team, led by Betty Nuthall, will endeavor to halt the march of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody to another national title.

The fact that Mrs. Moody failed to show her best form in several Eastern tourneys late last month will undoubtedly serve to encourage those fair racket-wielders who hope to dethrone "Queen Helen." Certainly if she plays no better than she did against Mrs. Jessup at Seabright, Mrs. Moody will encounter plenty of trouble this week. Betty Nuthall, the defending champion, Helen Jacobs, Phyllis Mudford, Mrs. Harper and the other stars have all been "pointing" for this tournament. America's Helen will have to be at the top of her game if she expects to smash through the opposition in her old imperious way.

The English girls, especially, have their own ideas on the subject of Mrs. Moody. "The way to beat Helen is to make her run" is what they will tell you; but some precepts are easier to listen to than to follow.

Many British critics think even more of the diminutive Miss

Phyllis Mudford than they do of Bounding Betty Nuthall. This small, quiet English girl is even tinier than Miss Sarah Palfrey, but her drives are like those of Little Bill Johnston of old—it is a mystery where the power comes from.

The eyes of tennis fans all over the world will be fixed on the courts at Forest Hills, for all the elements of sport drama will be present when Helen Wills Moody faces a formidable field in a test which should show conclusively whether she is slipping or not. Not even Mrs. Moody can go on forever, and this week's play will give us a definite line on her chances at Wimbledon next year.
